

Systems theory unleashed

Paradigmatic remote scanning is a performative research paradigm that evolved out of my practice of Artistic Research. What I understand as performative research centralizes the experiential and co-creative aspect of the production of knowledge and understanding. Paradigmatic remote scanning is an information retrieval method using a cybernetic process as the primary tool. I have been using it in the development of the Dreamtime Science paradigm. Generally this method is called 'divination' but this is an inaccurate term for there is consciously no divine being present and no communication of such kind. It is a method based on contemporary knowledge and understanding of the metaphysics of Morphogenetic Fields. It is a procedure that allows the omnidirectional holographic sphere our bodies exist in to synchronize with the target signature mediated through objects, a human body and/or a system that carries meaning. The Southern African tradition is properly described by Evan M. Zuesse. What follows are fragments extracted from History of Religions, Vol. 15, No. 2 (Nov-1975), pp 158-182, 'Divination and Deity in African Religions'.

'..there also exists an "international" divination system having great similarities from Zaire and Angola to South Africa, and those who have mastered it have high prestige in their societies. It is a form of wisdom in which reality is broken down into as many as 205 elements, each of which is represented by a bone, a piece of wood, or another object in a winnowing basket. To answer a query, the contents of the basket are shaken (after the proper invocations) and the pattern of symbols at the top of the basket is analyzed ..'

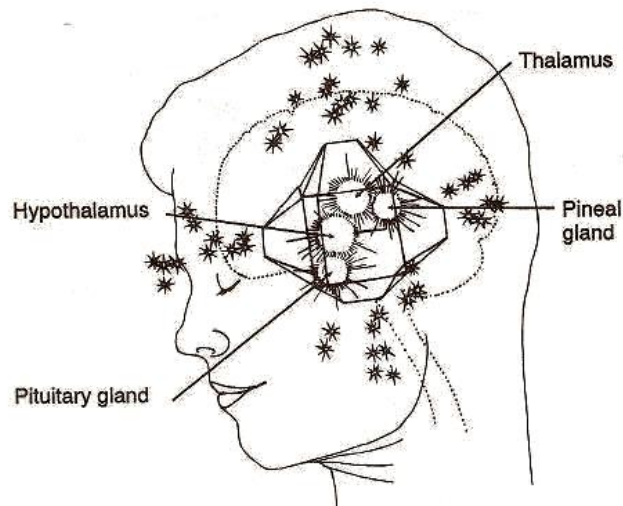

'.. its practice is, in effect, a "cybernetic" system ..'

'Occasionally there may be encountered on Central and Southern Africa an extraordinary form of divination, neither fully "possession" nor "wisdom" in type, which perhaps should be characterized as a third form- "insight" or "intuitive" divination. It does, however, share essential attributes of both possession and wisdom divinations, and a closer analysis shows it to have a structure which can be interpreted culturally in either way. It is tempting to claim for this apparently more elementary form of divination a deeper antiquity than the other two forms, or even to see it as the source of the others, but we can only confirm its priority is typological, not necessarily historical.'

This is not an academic scientific text nor an exercise in religious-spiritual ceremony. It is intended to be a work of Art that applies the multidisciplinary esthetic of Dreamtime Science. I am well aware that my research method would be considered 'pseudoscience' at best and superstition at worst by most academic circles. I have no intention to conform to skeptics and thus limit the esthetical and intellectual freedom that is the basis of my work. I am sure you understand, dear reader, that it would be unacceptable for me to not use the tool in its own terms. What I present is a meta-method that includes various strategies inspired by the many global divination practices, system theory, Keylonta, contemporary metaphysics, various theorems and archetypal systems. The limitations seem to be my imagination, knowledge, understanding, and resources in terms of time and effort to produce. The concepts I work with will limit the knowledge retrieved meaning that even though remote scanning offers a tremendous opportunity it still has boundaries and blind spots. When one has a hammer in hand problems concerning nails become the priority. It is important to not let the medium or tool itself become the message (/massage).

The development of Remote Viewing and the introduction to Keylonta have been essential to the development of Dreamtime Science. What follows is an explanation of the relationship between these two fields and Paradigmatic Remote Scanning (PReScan).

I highly recommend Keylontic Science as brought forward by Ashayana Deane and Lisa Renee. It is a discourse based on Unified Field Physics unparalleled in its vision, scope, detail and historical context. Higher sensory perception development is part of their curriculum as well as a spiritual bio-regenesis program. If one wants to focus on information retrieval methods I would recommend Remote Viewing.

Remote Viewing - a specific method developed by the United States Military - is the mental transference of information across time and space in apparent complete violation of the mainstream accepted quantum mechanics, which are over a hundred years old. The classical interpretation of the mathematics of quantum mechanics is simply incorrect for it does not allow for valid explanation of said phenomenon. The math itself is not in dispute, according to Dr. Courtney Brown only the interpretation of quantum mechanics is. The front man of the Farsight Institute refers to Englert and the famous two slit experiment. Herbert's interpretation was radical in his days; he had an understanding that there are other realities, parallel timelines, that we live in a frequency based universe, but he was widely laughed at in his day. The 'other worlds interpretation' allows for the generalization of quantum mechanics to the macro world which then allows for the Remote Viewing phenomenon to be understood. The Farsight Institute is one of the few examples of scientific research done with the method. I personally employ this technique as a possibility or a tactic of information retrieval within the metasytem of PReScan. Important is to understand that Remote Viewing is not telepathy. That phenomenon happens naturally and is a day-to-day testimony of the biological-information network as Rupert Sheldrake explains it. Remote Viewing demands that one must work blind, this is of vital importance that will have dire effects on the results and is the major pitfall for beginners and skeptics. It is actually telepathy that must be 'avoided' in order to retrieve the proper information without any psychological noise. The best Remote Viewers - like Daz Smith and Ingo Swann - reach an accuracy rate of 85% + and some can be hired privately. The Remote Viewing magazine Eight Martinis and the experiments done by the Farsight Institute are a testimony to the reality of Remote Viewing.

Maybe you heard of The Hundredth Monkey Syndrome, a theory based on empiric observation in scientific research, that states that there is a biological network that links our minds to each other and allows for the exchange of information. All the information that ever exists is already present, one only has to retrieve it and absorb into one's mind. This is easier said than done. If one wishes to learn more about it I direct you to Courtney Brown and Farsight.org. The work of Dolores Cannon and Bruce Goldberg also put forward the reality of the Superconscious Mind Matrix in the context of Hypnotherapy. Beyond the shadow of a doubt these people have proved that the mind is an immaterial field, an extra-temporal network, and is thus not limited to the brain or current space-time location.

Lisa Renee and Ashayana Deane, Andrew Bartzis and my own experiences have led me to the conviction that Keylonta is genuine. This means that it is the science of ancient Atlantis and Lemuria, or at least an introduction to it as brought forward by the so called Interdimensional Association of Free Worlds (IAFW) and the Azurite Council. Within this paradigm remote viewing is the projection of three-dimensional consciousness into the fourth dimension, from the Mental plane to the Astral plane, and one can go up the dimensions if one's frequency rate can handle the frequencies of the fifth and sixth dimensional planes, which are the middle and higher levels of the Doradic or Superconscious Mind. This is done with the Light Body which is part of the multidimensional human anatomy, the one that allows us to Remote View. The Light Body is the bio-electrical field, also called the aura though that is a specific part of the Light Body. It is that what inhabits our bodies, the Soul, the second level of our multidimensional anatomy, and the main realm of the dream world of most people since most are at a frequency range of four to five. For the more advanced ones there are beyond the collective fourth-, the archetypal fifth-, and the celestial sixth minds the seventh, eighth and ninth planes corresponding to the Minds of the same number. Beyond those there are the Solar fields of the tenth, eleventh and twelfth, to be followed by the Primal Sound-Light Fields. The breath of Keylonta is enormous thus in this article I will take only what I need, which is the structure of the Universal Time Matrix as seen on the diagram, showing the various levels of consciousness and realms. All realms are of consciousness-energy-substance that have different base pulse rhythms forming the various realities on the various frequencies. One can only perceive the dimensions under the frequency of the consciousness it is 'stationed' on. The process of frequency accretion is what produces the illusion of the passage of time, which is thus relative since everything has its own frequency signature. The following is a quote from Ascension Glossary (-.com), an encyclopedia on Keylontic Science and Galactic History:

"The Planetary Grid is organized intelligently into layers of geomantic blueprints holding living consciousness geometries which perform specific functions within a precise layer of multiple webbings of energy. The Platonic Solids are the fundamental shapes which impact the Morphogenetic Field of the planetary grid and its variety of Geomantic Structures. The planets geomantic structures represent the connection points to certain holographic realities of places, such as spiritual locations, sacred temples or events happening in other dimensions of time. It is possible with a prepared consciousness to interact with these realities in other dimensions, through a form of remote access or virtual reality, at certain positions of planetary geography. When we are called to serve the planet at the geographical position we have been directed to, the location turns into an interactive environment."

“Many ancient cultures knew the power of the Earth Grids and placed geomantic structures on specific locations in order to mark the area, and to amplify the forces there.”

“Holographic Geography can be thought of as somewhat similar to a sound recording of the intelligent energy of the earth. These sound recordings, made throughout the timelines of history, are created from vibrating matter, like musical instruments or vocal cords. They are encoded in such a way that they can be reproduced later, without the presence of the original vibrating matter.”

Another quote that is relevant:

“In the higher dimension of creation, when we hold (in our mind, JCF) the energetic signature and feeling of a person, place or thing, our consciousness is automatically transported to wherever they are located. Consciousness transport can happen while awake, asleep, in altered states or by intently focusing on a certain person or situation, such as focusing on a physical location or timeline on the Earth body.’

My understanding of what Lisa Renee describes leads me to the following statement: all knowledge, information, and sound-light recordings of past, present and future objects, events and situations are present within the Superconscious Mind of the Earth-Human-geogrid interface. This is accessible with a proper mental-bodily procedure; Remote Viewing is exactly such a procedure. Divination generally is similar to Remote Viewing in the aspect that one has to work blind to achieve the best results. Another aspect of similarity is that both methods use a conceptual grid to filter the information into understanding and anchor a projection grid from the Mental to the Astral. Also they are both limited by the mental understanding of the reader/viewer. PReScan does not necessarily operate on working blind but follows the general rules of divinatory practices. This is necessary because they are the only references if one uses tokens for the preferred concepts. For example if one throws shells, cards, stones, or uses any object or word it must be attached to a concept that carries meaning or else it has no use. A chicken-wing bone may stand for travel, a black stone may stand for night-time, a card may stand for a myth or constellation. Relevant is that there are multiple manners of interpretation at all times. The configurations between the objects reveal the complexity of the information and are to be regarded as a language inherent in the method itself. Just like Remote Viewing targets the objects used in divination and PReScan are Archetypal energy (see diagram for Keylontic reference) that resonates via the human bio-etheric grid interface into a specific formation, allowing for communication of the required pattern. It is the mind of the viewer/reader that can (mis-)interpret the information for it is the viewer/reader that creates the encounter with the energy signature of the target. Just like Remote Viewing one has to monitor one's own Analytical Overlays (AOL's) or mental interpretations of perceptual information that can contain noise.

My strategy of dealing with the AOL problem and the lack of resources (I am alone) is the refinement of the divinatory method into what I have labeled PReScan. I attribute specific concepts to cards and shuffle these cards thoroughly. This is an essential aspect because a shared aspect of most methods globally is a chance operation. This allows the procedure to work according to the experienced. The theory behind this is that when it comes to chance operations and life, every moment, configuration or situation is exactly that what it is because it could not be anything else. Even though there is a chance of, let's say, winning the lottery by having the right number, the chance of having any other number is the same as the having the right one. Thus every time the lottery is drawn it is a unique event with a unique outcome. There is always a winner if one chooses to ignore the numbers arbitrarily chosen to be winners. Correlating this to our quest it means that every time one uses PReScan or any divinatory method one should use it only once or risk losing accuracy since no two outcomes can be the same, technically. The advantage becomes the disadvantage if one does not know how to practically deal with this aspect. On the other hand one can also use this to one's advantage as the multiple readings allow for layered information to come through. However I would strictly advise this for only the advanced readers. Also in Remote Viewing one is only to view a target once by a single viewer.

I use various archetypal systems; the Galactic Zodiac, the Tarot, the I-Tjing, Joseph Campbell's Monomyth, Keylonta, Geo-mathematics, a variation of invented archetypes, and I have a card that indicates the activity of Remote Viewing thus when drawn it becomes a Target generated by the system. I used to use a deck of 361 cards but now I continuously make new cards thus it became an open system of more than thousand cards. I make use of spreads that consist of five, nine, eighteen or seventy-two cards depending on the target characteristics. There is the possibility to do a spread with an unlimited amount of cards and improvise as I'm going. Any kind of system can be 'plugged in' to PReScan and practically this means I end up combining Drawing with the system. The complexity has been increased, as one would expect from any developing system, allowing for chronicle-structures and conscious self-organization.

When necessary throwing stones and shells like the traditional southern African Sages do is really the best option. Again, I do not recommend anyone to follow exactly in my footsteps but to take only what one thinks is right for this is what I have done in relation to all these systems. The basis for PReScan is the combination or attribution of a system of concepts to a system of objects or tokens, material or immaterial, and then letting the body-mind-hologram complex resonate with the desired information in the Superconscious Mind. Some of the concepts and theorems I use outside of the traditional esoteric Fire-Water-Earth-Wind-Ether paradigm are the Economic Sectors, the Kardashev scale, the Bennett scale (DMIS), the Kathara grid, CATWOE problem analysis, the Cybernetic Enneagram, the Antrum Platonicum, the Social Development Index, and much more. PReScan is a meta-matrix of conceptual matrices that allows for the 'divination' with contemporary non-esoteric concepts. The procedure is the same as in these cultural practices conceptually. I see it as synchronically invoking the mathematics of chance operations and relational complexity within a symbolic micro-universe resonating with Earth's morphogenetic field. It's really a macro-micro co-created correlation method.

"The perceivable experience of movement, passing time, matter, space, distance between objects and separation of forms is an illusion created by the multidimensional, holographic refraction of particles and anti-particles, which pulsate and spin at varying speeds and angular rotations in relations to each other."
